"Lester uses the East-West game as a prism for viewing the sometimes-contradictory forces-economic, political, personal and communal—at work in black baseball, in turn complicating the aura of nostalgia that occasionally seeps into histories of the Negro Leagues" Chicago Tribune

In 1924, after the Hilldale Club captured the league crown in the new Eastern Colored League and the Kansas City Monarchs won out in the four-year-old Negro National League, the two teams met in what was to be a best-of-nine game series for the colored world championship. This heavily illustrated volume provides a comprehensive account of the first championship series played between teams from two all-black professional leagues.

"Lester provides a comprehensive account, heavily illustrated, with records, full statistics for each team's regular season, biographical player profiles, attendance, gate receipts, player comments and game-by-game summaries of series games. Early chapters provide background on the founders of Negro League baseball." Sports Collectors Digest

Although Andrew “Rube” Foster (1879– 1930) stands among the best African American pitchers of the 1900s, this baseball pioneer made his name as the founder and president of the Negro National League (NNL), the first all-black league to survive a full season. In addition to founding this groundbreaking black-owned and -operated business, Foster also founded and managed the Chicago American Giants, one of the most successful Black

Baseball teams of the pre-integration era. This definitive biography combines period editorials and correspondence with insightful narrative to provide a comprehensive portrait of this innovative Hall of Famer. From the unstructured early days of Black Baseball, when Foster gained glory as a hard-throwing pitcher, through his struggles to establish the NNL and his American Giants, to his tragic death from complications of syphilis, this work pays overdue tribute to an authentic American baseball icon.

The Foreword is written by former Commissioner Fay Vincent as a tribute to the NNL's first commissioner, and features cover art by the official artist of the Texas Baseball Hall of Fame, Opie Ottersad.
